In Puerto Rico, we strive to make sure the tourism industry has a positive impact on residents, visitors and the environment. Proof of our commitment to this goal is the fact that we became the first Caribbean destination to develop a Green Certifications Program, that guarantees endorsed participating tourism facilities and comply with sustainable practices criteria. These facilities and activities provide inimitable experiences that combine a sense of contact and bonding with the environment and our Islands world class natural resources.
Imagine a destination where you can enjoy and learn about outstanding unique natural resources and cultural richness while protecting the environment and improving the quality of life of local communities.

Puerto Rico has the resources and potential to advance and grow in the sustainable tourism sector due to its variety of natural and cultural attractions. The Puerto Rico Tourism Company (PRTC) has created a set of guidelines to provide a solid foundation for the development of ecotourism and sustainable tourism on the island. These guiding principles provide important and necessary tools for the planning, creation, and management of areas that will position Puerto Rico as a leader in these niche markets. The Green Certifications Program is the first government-sponsored program developed for the Caribbean region.

The 2030 Agenda for Sustainable Development, adopted by all United Nations Member States in 2015, provides a shared blueprint for peace and prosperity for people and the planet, now and into the future.

The Agenda have 17 Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs), which are an urgent call for action by all countries in a global partnership. They recognize that ending poverty and other deprivations must go hand-in-hand with strategies that improve health and education, reduce inequality, and spur economic growth – all while tackling climate change and working to preserve our oceans and forests.

The Puerto Rico Tourism Company is committed to educate and promote the implementation of these Objectives as part of the country's tourism operations.
A place to stay is a key component of any journey. There are several lodges around the island that follow sustainable practices in all operational areas, such as energy efficiency; water conservation; proper management and disposal of waste products; indoor air quality control; landscaping practices; recycling programs; adherence to established environmental policies; promotion of local community participation; green of ecofriendly vehicles; and reduction of toxic and hazardous substances, and many others.

Under the Sustainable Tourism Facilities Program’s formal Memorandum of Understating, the Puerto Rico Tourism Company collaborates with the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency and the Puerto Rico Solid Waste Management Authority, in a collective effort to advance sustainable development and operation of hospitality facilities in Puerto Rico.

Agrotourism is a form of sustainable tourism in which various activities that relate to tourism and agriculture are integrated. The tourism activity provides additional income to supplement existing agricultural activity. PRTC’s program offers two types of certifications – Basic and Ecological.

Puerto Rico’s climate, topography, hydrology, soil diversity, and geology create the perfect environment for an extensive variety of agricultural and farming activities. This agricultural diversity gives tourists the opportunity to discover and taste a wide range of local fruits, products and cuisine.

Agrotourism offers a behind-the-scenes look of how our Island’s harvests have shaped Puerto Rican culture and traditions. One of the best examples of how agriculture has shaped the history of the island is coffee production. A visit to witness first-hand the process of harvesting, roasting, and grinding world-renowned Puerto Rican coffee at a hacienda is the perfect opportunity to glimpse into the Island’s past.

Blue Flag is one of the world’s most recognized voluntary eco-labels awarded to beaches, marinas, and sustainable boating tourism operators. In order to qualify for the Blue Flag, a series of rigorous environmental, educational, safety, and accessibility criteria must be met and maintained.

The Blue Flag program is operated under the sponsorship of the Foundation for Environmental Education (FEE). Through close collaboration with our members on any and all issues they may have, the FEE works tirelessly to ensure the program's expansion, and that the unrivalled standards of the Blue Flag are maintained internationally. The awardees are periodically inspected to safeguard compliance with the established requirements. The criteria includes: Education, Information, Monitoring, Management and Safety.

Blue Flag began in 2005 in Puerto Rico, in compliance with Act 173 of 2000. The program is administered by OPAS, a NGO 501c3 nonprofit organization created to find solutions for a more sustainable and resilient island. Thanks to the Puerto Rico Tourism Company and OPAS, Blue Flag has achieved that better beach management, conservation, environmental education and sustainability are promoted in our beautiful beaches.
